

A Seminar Presented for One Health Day

One Health is the integrative effort of multiple disciplines working locally, nationally, and globally to attain optimal health for people, animals, and the environment.

Sponsored by
The ISU Office of the Vice President for Research and
The College of Veterinary Medicine

Integrating One Health Concepts in Addressing Emerging and Re-emerging Diseases

Presented by
Dr. James A. Roth, Clarence Hartley Covault Distinguished Professor,
Member of the National Academy of Medicine
College of Veterinary Medicine

November 3, 2016
Room 2226 College of Veterinary Medicine
Noon- 1pm

Please join us in person, but if you cannot, please check the website for access details that will be posted later at

Events Nov 3, 2016

https://vetmed.iastate.edu/research-grad-studies/centers-institutes-and-initiatives/one-health

Dr. James A. Roth is a Clarence Hartley Covault Distinguished Professor at the College of Veterinary Medicine at Iowa State University and Member of the National Academy of Medicine in the Department of Veterinary Microbiology and Preventive Medicine. He also is Director of the ISU Center for Food Security and Public Health, Executive Director of the Institute for International Cooperation in Animal Biologics, and Adjunct Professor in the College of Public Health at the University of Iowa. He is a member of the council of advisors for the One Health Commission. Dr. Roth received the Public Service Award from the American Veterinary Medical Association and the USDA APHIS Administrator's award for lifetime achievements in animal health.