

Joann Lindenmayer, DVM, MPH

Dr. is immediate past chair of the One Health Commission having served in that position since 2015. Her 30+ year career focused on One Health in the areas of emerging infectious diseases, human-animal bond, disaster management and more recently, the ethics of One Health.

Dr. Lindenmayer is a former faculty member of Tufts University's Medical School and Cummings School of Veterinary Medicine where she was the co-Principal Investigator of USAID's Tufts RESPOND Grant, precursor to the One Health Workforce, and she served as Director of the DVM-MPH combined degree program.

Dr. Lindenmayer currently chairs the Leadership Council of the Humane Society Veterinary Medical Association, is a member of the Board of the Massachusetts Animal Coalition and the Uxbridge, Massachusetts Board of Health, and is President of the 'Wellness Warriors', her dragon boat team.